

Coyote Sightings

There have been several coyotes seen in the neighborhood and in the surrounding wetlands. You may hear them howling at dusk or during the night.

A coyote is a little smaller and has a narrower build than a wolf. It is generally less social and often seen alone. It feeds primarily on small animals such as rabbits and mice. While there is little danger to human beings, small pets that are loose may be prey to a hungry coyote. Be careful and watch your pets.
